

DR. LORENZ TO AID CRIPPLES OF CITY

Famous Surgeon Now in New York Says He Will Try to Come Here

WILL REPAY CHILDREN

Dr. Adolf Lorenz, of Vienna, the distinguished orthopedic surgeon, whose marvelous bloodless surgery is known in all parts of the world, may come to Philadelphia to treat, without charge, poor crippled children.

Dr. Lorenz was brought to this country first in 1902 by J. Ogden Armour, of Chicago, to treat his daughter, Dr. Lorenz, with his arm, but no instruments and did not open the skin. His skill lies in his powerful hands and fingers.

Dr. Lorenz arrived in New York two days ago, and has been besieged by mothers who bring their crippled children to his hotel. Dr. Lorenz is on his way to Chicago, where he is to spend the Christmas holidays with the Armours.

"I am coming to Philadelphia if I am able," he said this morning over the long-distance telephone. "I would be only too happy to come and do what I can for the children of your city. I am to be here only three months, but it can be arranged I will get there before I return to Austria."

In explaining his mission in this country Dr. Lorenz said:

"To repay to the poor children here of your country what the children here with their pennies have done toward softening the terrible suffering of the children of Austria, and my home city, Vienna, in particular. It was their pennies which went to funds for our woman Dr. Lorenz recommended "fixation" by enveloping Miss Moore's cranium, neck and the upper part of her throat and arms in a plaster of paris bandage. Her physician described this as "invaluable advice" and followed every suggestion.

you can either go to sleep again or get up, the main trouble being that if you go to sleep again you'll miss some fun and if you get up you'll miss some sleep. This proves every pleasure has its pain.

Most fellows haven't got anything to do on Satiddays, being their favorite way of being, so if you tell them to go on an errand on Satidday its the worse news you could tell them, on account of no matter how hard it is to have to go on an errand when you're doing something else, its worse when you're not doing anything. For this reason it isn't considered good to stick around your own house too much on Satiddays.

Satidday is the best time to take a bath for 3 reasons as follows, first because you'll be clean all over for Sunday, 2nd, because its the end of the week and you probably need it, and 3rd because all your friends take their bath on Satidday and you don't want to look stuck up do you?

There's a weed in every language meaning Satidday, proving no matter how far you have to travel and what part of the world you are in there is never any excuse for not taking a weekly bath.
